Introduction:

The pressures on the NHS and social care services continue to be intense and the demand for health and social care is increasing at a time when budgets are being squeezed and health inequalities are increasing. Rutland is no exception.

As in other areas, the NHS and Social Care in Rutland has been tasked with setting out how it plans to achieve wide-scale changes that make the most of the funding available and improves care for patients. These 'Sustainability and Transformation Partnerships' (STPs) have been asked for by NHS England in response to the big challenges society faces when it comes to people's health and the services that support them.

Local Healthwatch organisations were established under the Health and Social Care Act 2012 to act as a local consumer voice for people using health and social care services. Local Healthwatch came into force from April 2013. There are 152 Healthwatch regions in England and a national body, Healthwatch England, which provides advice, guidance and a national profile for Healthwatch.

The Connected Together Community Interest Company (CTCIC) is commissioned by Rutland County Council to deliver the role and functions of Healthwatch in Rutland. CTCIC is a social enterprise and a partnership between the University of Northampton and Voluntary Impact Northamptonshire.

The CTCIC is the responsible body with legal, financial and contractual responsibility for the organisation. The Healthwatch Rutland (HWR) Board is the public face of the organisation and ensures delivery of the agreed vision, values and strategy involving and empowering the local community.

Our strategy is regularly reviewed to respond to external developments and challenges. This strategy will be completely reviewed when the Healthwatch Rutland contract is reviewed in April 2021.

Healthwatch Rutland has five strategic priorities:

1. To deliver our statutory functions
2. To champion the views of all people who live in or use health, social or wellbeing services in Rutland including under-represented and 'hard to reach' groups
3. To work for improved health and social care outcomes for adults and children
4. To work closely with other local Healthwatches to identify opportunities for joint engagement, information sharing and representation
5. To recruit and develop staff and volunteers in Rutland to continue to build the capacity of Healthwatch Rutland as an independent consumer champion of health and social care

Healthwatch Rutland's five strategic priorities:

1) To deliver our statutory role and functions

Healthwatch Rutland is required to deliver eight statutory functions by:

1. Promoting and supporting the involvement of local people in the commissioning, provision and scrutiny of local care services
 2. Enabling local people to monitor the standard of provision of local care services and whether and how local care services could and ought to be improved
 3. Obtaining the views of local people regarding their need for, and experiences of, local care services and, importantly, to make those views known
 4. Producing reports and making recommendations about how local care services could or ought to be improved. These should be directed at commissioners and providers of care services and people responsible for managing and scrutinising local services and shared with Healthwatch England and others, e.g. the Care Quality Commission (CQC)
 5. Providing advice and information about access to local health and care services so choices can be made about local care services
 6. Formulating views on the standard of provision and whether and how local care services could and ought to be improved, and sharing these views with Healthwatch England
 7. Making recommendations to Healthwatch England to advise the Care Quality Commission (CQC) to conduct special reviews or investigations (or where the circumstances justify doing so, making such recommendations direct to the CQC), and to make recommendations to Healthwatch England to publish reports about particular issues
 8. Providing Healthwatch England with the intelligence and insight it needs to enable it to perform effectively

In addition:

- Annual report - Healthwatch must produce a report in relation to their activities at the end of each financial year submitted to Healthwatch England by 30th June
- Transparency and governance - Healthwatch must have a procedure in place for making relevant decisions, which should include who makes the decisions and how we involve lay people or volunteers
- Public admission to meetings - we currently hold six public Board meetings per year, including an annual meeting
- We have the powers to refer matters to the overview and scrutiny committee
- We have the power of Enter and View
- Other requirements, e.g. responding to NHS provider Quality Accounts
- To manage our financial resources effectively striving to work within our budget
- To continue to develop and deliver our communications plan so that local people know about Healthwatch Rutland; what we do and the impact we are having in making a positive difference to people's lives
- To continue to develop our Information and Signposting function so that local people can easily access information and advice about health and social care working closely with other information providers to share information and avoid duplication

2) To champion the views of all people who live in or use health, social or wellbeing services in Rutland including under-represented and 'hard to reach' groups

The Sustainable Transformation Partnership (STP) for Leicester, Leicestershire and Rutland's vision is to deliver better health, better care and better value. We must be immersed in the full detail of this work and will deliver this priority by:

- Ensuring we have effective and significant influence with the STP Board, continuing to research and report on patient, service user and carer experiences to help shape the redesign of services
 - Holding the STP to account on key principles including person centred services; equity of access; transparency of decision making; consistency of quality; best use of resources; effective joint working and best practice
 - Continuing to develop ways of finding out more about people's use and experience of primary and community healthcare and identifying ways in which care can be improved
 - Engaging under-represented and 'hard to reach' groups in Rutland to ensure that their views and experiences of services are captured

- Working with partner organisations representing users and carers, to ensure there is robust monitoring from a service user, patient and carer perspective
- Continuing to work in partnership with patients and the public, the wider voluntary and community sector, the NHS, Social Care and partners to test new ways of supporting people to manage their health more effectively and use services more efficiently

3) To work for improved health and social care outcomes for adults and children

Healthwatch Rutland will deliver this strategic priority by:

- Ensuring that together with service users and carers, we are fully involved in the commissioning and monitoring of adult and children's health and social care services
- Ensuring Healthwatch Rutland is effectively influencing decision making about services
- Ensuring that mental health provision is given parity with that for physical health provision
- Researching and reporting on experiences of people and making recommendations for improvement
- Promoting a model of user and carer engagement and involvement that represents best practice
- Continuing to develop ways to involve and mobilise children and young people so their views and voices are heard directly e.g. through the development of a Young Healthwatch Rutland.

4) To work closely with other local Healthwatches to identify opportunities for joint engagement, information sharing and representation

- Develop agreements with other local Healthwatches to enable close joint working.
 - Maintain close working relationships with other local Healthwatches.
 - To engage with commissioners and service providers, alongside fellow local Healthwatch on services used by Rutland residents outside the borders of the county.

5) To recruit and develop staff and volunteers in Rutland and continue to build the capacity of Healthwatch Rutland as an independent consumer champion of health and social care

We will:

- Continue to develop a top performing staff team which strives for excellence in all our work
- Building on the current volunteer base, recruit, train and develop a growing Healthwatch Rutland community of volunteers reflecting the local population
- Grow our membership numbers
- Ensure the Healthwatch Rutland board strives to reflect the needs of Rutland communities
- Ensure that we have all the necessary policies and procedures to ensure we are fully compliant with contractual and legal requirements

This strategy sets out five clear strategic priorities for Healthwatch Rutland. As well as having clear priorities to focus our work and activity, we will also be an organisation that is responsive and reactive to local issues, so the strategy is not intended to exhaustively include all areas of work. We regard this document as a living, breathing strategy, which will require regular review and comment. We believe that a robust, independent consumer champion which works positively and effectively will raise the quality of local health and social care. Where we find examples of great care and effective involvement we will celebrate those. We will be constructively critical when necessary - highlighting the problems but also being part of the solution. We are passionate about the right to good quality health and social care - we regard those rights as fundamental human rights.
